

LEONARD & SANDY SARGENT EVST GRADUATE FELLOW

2004-05

Melissa Mathewson

Melissa Mathewson is currently an Small Farm Specialist instructor at the Oregon State University's Department of Horticulture. Her research is on organic seed saving and vegetable production. She is also pursuing an MFA in creative nonfiction at the Vermont College of Fine Arts. She is an assistant essays editor at The Rumpus and plays music once a week on her alternative/indie radio show The Knotty Edge at Free Will Radio.

Melissa earned her BA degree in environmental studies from the University of California — Santa Cruz and a MS in environmental studies at the University of Montana.