

LEONARD & SANDY SARGENT EVST GRADUATE FELLOW

2010-11

Micah Sewell

---

Presently, Micah is the recruitment/open enrollment coordinator at the Ecology Project International, an education organization dedicated to developing field science partnerships between local experts and school students worldwide to address critical conservation issues.

While working on his MS degree in environmental studies at the University of Montana, he was co-director of the UM FLAT program. His previous experience included interning at Maha Farm and volunteering through Americorp on Whidbey Island, Washington as an adventure education class at a middle school, developing a community garden, and working with the Island's 4-H program.

Originally from Michigan, he received BA degrees in History, International Studies and Italian from Gonzaga University in Spokane, Washington.
